PROLIFICS OFFERS DATAPOWER EXPERTISE TO CUSTOMERS

Proven Successes Make Prolifics A Leading DataPower Resource

NEW YORK, New York – August 17, 2007 – Prolifics, an end-to-end systems integrator specializing in Portal, SOA, Security and Business Integration solutions, today announced that it has built an IBM® WebSphere® DataPower® practice which has already proven successful for its clients. This new practice adds to the already deep level of skills and services that only Prolifics can provide.

Prolifics, recognized by IBM with their Beacon Award for Overall Technical Excellence, is one of a small select group authorized as DataPower resellers offering total solutions that include both software and services. DataPower appliances offer an innovative and practical approach to harness the power of SOA and enable a customer to leverage the value of existing applications, security, and networking infrastructure investments. Customers continue to look at Prolifics as a true technology partner by retaining their services when it comes to mission critical projects that require innovative and reliable solutions.

Recent DataPower success stories for Prolifics include helping an insurance company contain security flaws, a government agency receive and process complex Web services without incurring a tremendous performance overhead, a financial company secure critical transactions and a healthcare company implement a gateway that encrypted private data to comply with HIPPA regulations.
