PROLIFICS EXPANDS NORTH AMERICAN SERVICES WITH EXCLUSIVE PARTNERSHIP WITH CANADIAN IBM BUSINESS PARTNER TANGENTIA

NEW YORK, New York – June 21, 2010 – Prolifics, the largest end-to-end systems integrator specializing in IBM technologies, today announced that it has entered into an exclusive business partnership with Canadian-based solutions provider and IBM Business Partner, Tangentia, Inc. This exclusive relationship expands Prolifics' North American presence into Canada and enables both companies to offer their services to a broader market.

With exceptional IBM software skills across all brands, both companies combine to create a powerful teaming – one of a select set of companies that is authorized by IBM to sell software across all of North America. "We are really excited about this joining of forces," said Vijay Thomas, Partner, Tangentia, "With this partnering, Tangentia gains access to resources that now enable us to offer a wider breadth of capabilities and offerings within Canada to new and existing customers. Prolifics is one of the most respected IBM Business Partners - with tremendous skills, experience and proven success across IBM's entire software portfolio and we look forward to customers benefiting from this partnership."

"Clients recognize the value in working with skilled partners such as Prolifics and Tangentia to architect and implement solutions that can transform their business," said Nicolas Jabbour, CEO, Prolifics. "Our primary goal is to help clients succeed, offering them numerous services including Application Health Assessments, Readiness Reviews, and Performance Optimization services designed to ensure our customers get a return on their investment. We would like to bring our award-winning solutions to companies based in Canada and this teaming gives Prolifics an entry point to do so."
